- Get listed in all of the EV Charging apps as an EV Charging Location to attract new customers.
- You could add EV Charging with site rentals as an added incentive.
- Another growing trend in the US is to offer tents or pre-owned trailers at designated locations for rental to electric vehicle road trippers.
- Keep earning money during the off-season from people only looking to charge their EV.
- You may already have much of the electric infrastructure needed, which would reduce initial electrician costs.
- There may be federal, state, and/or local rebates and tax incentives available in your location right now.

ENVIRONMENTAL BENEFITS

- Besides the obvious benefits of what electric cars bring to green table, noise pollution might be one that you haven't thought of. These customers would not only have zero emissions, they also wouldn't make much noise to disturb your other guests.
- EV chargers are a great visual display of your property's commitment to promote sustainability in the outdoor industry.
